

The FDA has now started accepting applications for the second class of the FDA Commissioner's Fellowship Program. The fellowship program combines rigorous didactic coursework with the development of a hypothesis-driven, regulatory science research project.

The application deadline is April 15th and the 2-year program start date will be October 5th.

Applicants must be U.S. Citizens, non-citizen nationals of the U.S., or have been admitted to the U.S. for permanent residence before the program start date.
